DETAILED ACTION

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 102

The following is a quotation of the appropriate paragraphs of 35 U.S.C. 102 that form the basis for the rejections under this section made in this Office action:

A person shall be entitled to a patent unless –

(b) the invention was patented or described in a printed publication in this or a foreign country or in public use or on sale in this country, more than one year prior to the date of application for patent in the United States.

Claims 1-10 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(b) as being anticipated by Zheng “X-ray Characterizations of Polyethylene Polyhedral Oligomeric Silsesquioxane Copolymers” 10/24/01.

Zheng discloses the use of polyhedral oligomeric silsesquioxane (POSS) nanoparticles polymerized with copolymers (polymer matrix, polysiloxane) to create new stable polymer. The copolymers employed are polysiloxane. POSS containing copolymers have higher mechanical and thermal properties than the polymers without POSS side units (page 2375). The instant application specification states the polymer matrix is a polysiloxane (page 6). The instant application specification states the preferred solid filler particles for use in the invention include polyhedral oligomeric silsesquioxanes (POSS) and the POSS are dispersed in polysiloxane. Zheng discloses each of these limitations.

Applicant's arguments filed 4/21/08 have been fully considered but they are not persuasive. Applicant argues, "The claims are not directed to copolymers in which the polymeric backbone is covalently bonded to a solid particulate filler, but rather to a composite material in which a solid particulate filler is physically dispersed within a polymer matrix. It is well known in the art that solid particulate filler that is dispersed in a polymer matrix is not covalently bonded to the polymer matrix, and that such composite is not the same as or equivalent to a copolymer as disclosed by Zheng." The Examiner points out that the claims are read with the broadest interpretation in light of the specification, and nowhere in the specification does it state that a solid particulate filler that is dispersed in a polymer matrix is not covalently bonded to the polymer matrix. Further, the Examiner contends that this is well known in the art.

Conclusion

THIS ACTION IS MADE FINAL. Applicant is reminded of the extension of time policy as set forth in 37 CFR 1.136(a).

A shortened statutory period for reply to this final action is set to expire THREE MONTHS from the mailing date of this action. In the event a first reply is filed within TWO MONTHS of the mailing date of this final action and the advisory action is not mailed until after the end of the THREE-MONTH shortened statutory period, then the shortened statutory period will expire on the date the advisory action is mailed, and any extension fee pursuant to 37 CFR 1.136(a) will be calculated from the mailing date of the advisory action. In no event, however, will the statutory period for reply expire later than SIX MONTHS from the mailing date of this final action.
